Richard Collacott Scholarship (High School Scholarship)

The Richard Collacott High School Golf Scholarships have been awarded since 1992 to encourage high school students to enjoy the game of golf and continue their education. The Scholarship was established following Richard's untimely death at the age of 41. Prior to his demise he was able to fulfill his life long dream of being able to play the Old Course at St. Andrews in Scotland, and establish a yearly competition, called the Hawkins, which allowed them to meet every year, to play rounds of competitive golf for a trophy and bragging rights. The competition was always arranged to include some travel, when time and work commitments allowed. Richard loved the game of golf. His parents started him playing at the age of 5 at the Paisley Nine in Saskatoon. He played, and worked as a high school student at the Saskatoon G&CC. Richard was a golf fanatic, who achieved a hole in one in 1972, at the Mayfair in Edmonton. He was able to share his love of golf with his wife Brenda and son Kris. His son has gone on to become a Golf Professional with the CPGA, and continues to share that love of golf through his teaching and coaching. Richard's ashes, at his last request rest on a golf course, where he will always have the fairway in front of him. The families hope, is that through these scholarships, in some small way others may too, be able to have their dreams come true. The Richard Collacott Scholarship is awarded annually to two high school students in the province pursuing academic and golf excellence. The scholarships are valued at $250 each.
